$2.4 million buildings open soon

Health Center offers service this weekend

The new student health center will be open for business this weekend although it is not fully equipped.

Health Services director Dr. Edward Stoner said the center's staff started moving into the new facility Thursday and will be ready to handle weekend patients.

Services will be limited to minor treatment and referrals because some equipment has not been ordered, has not arrived, or awaits installation. It will be several months before the facility is complete, Stoner said.

"If we didn't have desks we'd sit on orange crates," he said. "This place is like heaven compared to the old one."

The old center's space will be taken by Student Government, said John P. Goree, vice president for Business Affairs.

The biggest problem with the new center is the absence of a receiving corridor for the emergency room. Double doors separate the room from a loading ramp outside and opening the door could let dust enter. Stoner said the design defect will be circumvented by keeping the double doors locked. Patients will enter through the waiting room or a side door.

Robert Webb, Facilities Planning director, said the project finished within budget and ahead of schedule.

Ad hoc committee to probe last month's grade scandal

by Laura Hoffman
Editor-in-Chief

The recently formed Faculty Senate ad hoc committee met for the first time Tuesday to organize its investigation of last month's grade change scandal.

The formation of the committee, and the investigation, were prompted by a request last summer by former assistant basketball coach Ray Ridenour to withdraw a basketball player from two spring quarter classes two weeks after the quarter ended.

Dr. John Bolte, associate vice president for academic affairs, authorized the grade change, without notifying the student or the instructors involved. Both Bolte and Ridenour said they did not know the athlete had completed the course and received a grade. Yet the memo Bolte initialed which initiated the grade change stated that the two "D" grades were to be changed to "W"s.

According to Dr. Elmar Fetscher, one of the players approached him at the end of the quarter and told him the student needed to make better than a "D" to stay in school.

In December, after the faculty senate had been told about the situation, Dr. Leslie Ellis, vice president of academic affairs, changed the two grades back to "D"s.

The committee will investigate and make recommendations on the current withdrawal policy. They are also assigned to affix responsibility examining this particular incident and to check for past similar occurrences.

Dr. David Gurney of the College of Education, chairman of the committee, said he felt they had a "good, strong committee."

"This is not a witch hunt or a fishing expedition." He explained that the

Bookstore relocating in February

by Sherry Reed
Future staff

The new Student Services Building will be open in mid-February, said Richard Scott, director of Auxiliary Services. A final inspection this week has paved the way for the move to the new facility.

February 9 is the tentative transfer date, said Scott. The building, located northeast of the library, will have a bookstore, snack bar, lounge, and meeting rooms.

The bookstore will be closed from Feb. 7 to Feb. 14 as it relocates from beneath the library to the new facility.

The new bookstore will have 40 percent more space, which will eliminate long lines and make a greater number of paperback books available.

Scott said the snack bar will not open until spring quarter because further equipment and furnishings are needed. A gala grand opening is also scheduled for spring quarter.

The bookstore's old location will be used by Instructional Resources, the Developmental Center and the library.

Construction of the Student Services Building began at the same time as the new Health Center with a combined cost of $2.4 million, said John Goree, vice president of Business Affairs. The price also includes renovations to the Student Center Auditorium.

The original budget anticipated an addition to the game room and a Greek housing project, but these plans were dropped when actual cost exceeded the budget.

Bob Webb, director of Facilities Planning, said the Student Services Building will help "to some degree the space problems at UCF."

Blount denounces block tuitions

"Block tuition fees would simply kill us," said Student Body President James Blount, responding to one of three The BOR has proposed the use of block tuition fees in to 12 hours. "Students should not be taxed for hours they may Blount served as vice chairman of the BOR task force which investigated the need for changing fee policies in the areas of tuition, health fees, and Activity and Service Fees. The task force compiled recommendations to be considered by the state legislature in March.

Tuition

The BOR has proposed the use of block tuition fees in the upcoming year. While not mandating the use of block fees, the proposal allows each university the option of charging a standard tuition rate that would not be determined by the number of hours a student takes.

If a school sets its block fee "at $15 per credit hour for 15 hours, a student enrolled full time at 12 hours would still have to pay for 15," Blount said.

He added that UCF students would particularly suffer considering the large number of commuters who average 11 to 12 hours. "Students should not be taxed for hours they may not take," he said.

Activity and Service Fees

The task force also considered what portion of the Activity and Service Fee should be "shaved off the top" to fund athletics, Blount said.

The fee fund is financed by students as a $2.69 per credit hour charge paid with tuition. This year it is expected to generate $1.8 million.

The fund provides student activities and services, including Student Center films, campus newspapers, and often athletic department staff and equipment.

Blount said that at a university such as UCF, the majority of athletic department financing comes from the fees, while sports revenue generating schools such as the University of Florida use very little of the funding.

He called the BOR's decision to freeze future funding of athletics from the Activity and Service Fee at the level provided in the '79-'80 year "a unique and historical decision."

Ralph Nader to speak here

by Mike Griffin
Future staff

Ralph Nader, America's famous consumer advocate, will be on campus at 8 p.m. Monday in the SCA to speak to interested faculty and students.

Nader, sponsored by the Student Center speakers committee, will discuss Corporate Power in America: The Workings of the Economic Government.

An attorney who's book "Unsafe at Any Speed" first made headlines in 1965, Nader has been called everything from a muckracker to public defender.

Nader seems to have moved away from the issues of seat belts and airbags and now concentrates most of his efforts on what he calls the "imperialism" of multinational corporations.

Nader claims the time has come for the consumer movement to advance from ad hoc reforms to structural economic change and new forms of consumer organizations. Consumers, he says, must take a hand in their own economic decisions.

"Economic self-determination" is what Nader calls his plan to bring American consumers to a recognition of where they can make alternative steps concerning their economic future. It is these steps that Nader outlines in his lecture.

There will be a press conference immediately before the speech and a reception following.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader speaks out.

BOR approves $8 million for library

The Board of Regents has approved $8 million for expansion of the UCF library.

The $8 million must be appropriated by the state legislature. Lynn Walker, director of the library said, "We have one more big hurdle, the appropriation. We are high on the Board of Regents' priority list and we have a good chance of getting it."

John Goree, vice president of Business Affairs said no architect has been appointed but the plan is to remodel the old building and construct an additional building.

Approximately $2.5 million of the $8 million proposal, will fund renovations of the existing library. Renovations will be done in two stages, said Goree. The first stage remodels the area soon to be vacated by the bookstore, as well as a portion of the second floor. The second stage renovations won't be done until the new building is completed.

There are three sites now being considered for the new building, according to Goree. One possibility is an area on the north side of the library, with the other two sites located west of the present building.

Over $400,000 will be required to plan the new facility. The money has already been set aside in his year's budget said Goree. He expects to receive word from the BOR with a week, indicating whether or not to begin looking for an architect.

Walker said of the old library, "We are in a terrible bind for space. We are way below everybody's standards. The Board of Regents guidelines require more space for a library and we are also below the standards of The American Library Association's standards for space."

Tracy Phelps/Future

Too many students at too few tables indicate library's cramped conditions.

Health center

It is part of the $2.4 million student services/health center project, originally slated for completion in March.

Campus architect Richard Lavender said the health center cost about $650,000, basing his estimate on a ratio of square footage between the center and the Student Services Building. He said construction costs ran "a little over" the bids but were covered by a contingency fund.

The student union/health center project was financed by the university's Capital Improvement Trust Fund.

Fees

Blount said it would commit $308,000 of student fees to sports. "Twenty years from now student government (which allocates the funds) can sit and still fun $308,000."

"We do not encourage any more expansion in the athletic program," he said. "We cannot afford it."

Athletic department business manager Bill Goldsby said "We're in a heap of trouble if salaries aren't frozen at the same time."

He said the state has already committed the department to seven percent salary increases. He added it would take at least $331,000 to maintain the athletic department through next year.

With less "we would have to reduce the number of sports," he said. "We're not at the level where we can generate funds."

Health Fee

The task force finally considered the health fee, recommending that its limit be raised from $12 per quarter to $25 per semester. Blount said the Florida Student Association and the State Council of Student Body Presidents are supporting a cap of $20.

Blount asserted that "any increase in the health fee should be voted in by a student referendum."

Dr. Edward Stoner, director of UCF health services, said he supported the increased cap because of "the variance in the type of services rendered in different state universities."

"The University of Florida and Florida State are going into the hole by the thousands with the lower cap rate," he said. "I'm just guessing, but we won't have to go beyond our $12 rate for a long time."

Blount said he has trouble with the wording of the BOR's health fee recommendation, allowing each university to determine its charge at the univerty BOR level."

"What does that mean?" he asked, suggesting that it shouldn't be solely an administrative decision.

We don't want to see anymore expansion," Blount said.

Fern Park Station, one of the newest rock n' roll bars in Altamonte Springs, offers a change for the night life.

Located next to Jai-Alai on Fernwood Boulevard, it is open Monday through Saturday from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m.

Fern Park presents a light show with a live band every night. Currently appearing is Fantasia.

There is a restaurant that serves delectables from fried veggies to fillets and steaks.

Fern Park Station holds approximately 700 people. Besides a large bar there is also a spacious dance floor.

A relaxed atmosphere and reasonably priced drinks attract a large college crowd.

Monday is "drink and drown" night with house brands only 10 cents.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, house brands are 75 cents.

Thursday is "ladies night", all house brands are free. Fruit based drinks are not served.

There is a $2 cover charge every night except for $3 every Thursday.

Service is quick, and the bartenders are friendly.

Art gallery exhibits limited in funds

by Judy Wall

Future staff

Budget restrictions, limited space and improper security hamper attempts by the UCF Art Department to present a diversified program in its gallery.

Art Department Chairman Dr. Charles Wellman said, "An art gallery should be the major cultural portal to the university. A gallery serves as the showplace for the university, where students, the university community and the community at-large have ready accessibility to the finest of both historical and contemporary visual art."

The department gave up a substantial amount of classroom space for the gallery and uses its budget to maintain exhibitions.

"Without a larger budget we're limited to bringing in cheap shows. We pay the shipping and insurance, one way, for shows coming in. We mostly bring in flatwork, as this is the easiest to transport. Sculpture and ceramic shows are severely restricted.

"Compared to a typical museum show that costs maybe $1,000, we may spend at best about $150 to $200 bringing a show in," Wellman said.

Shows are picked a year in advance by an Art Department committee. "With our limited budget we must impose upon friends to do free shows. It takes several days to put the shows up and take them down. The faculty time for the gallery's maintenance is uncompensated. The gallery needs its own staff," he said.

Wellman said he hopes that by next year the department will have at least one person to take responsibility for gathering donations and grants for the gallery.

The gallery's design also has drawbacks, according to Wellman: "With the lights placed so close to the art, the deterioration process of the art is accelerated and the heat is uncomfortable to the viewers. Most galleries have a 16-foot ceiling." UCF's is seven feet high.

Located on the HFA Building's third floor, the gallery is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Wellman said it must be kept locked during weekends because there is no other security. Within the year the gallery was robbed (a photograph of a nude disappeared) and suffered one incident of vandalism.

With all these drawbacks, some might ask, "Why bother?" Wellman replies, "The gallery is the focus of all art activity. Without it we would be reduced to only a bulletin board in the hall."

Currently on display is a collection of etchings, messotints, photolithographs and silkscreens by members of the Printmakers Workshop in Edinburgh, Scotland.

The show was brought over to UCF by visiting professor of art, George

Donald said, "I think the gallery is nice, and indispensable as a performance area for artist. As for my show, I think it looks rather handsome there."

Singing Sales

Today local singer-musician Vernon Hall will be performing at the Kiosk from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. to open ticket sales for the UCF Marketing Association's second annual "In the Heart of the Night" dance. Proceeds will go to the American Heart Association.

Along with Hall's contemporary acoustical sounds will be free T-shirts, Quarter Pounder cards from McDonald's restaurants and free beer from the Schenck Co.

Florida Southern hands UCF 56-50 loss

by Vince Cotroneo
Future Staff

Last year it was Mark King who beat the Knights and this year it was Mark King again.

The junior from Rotunda, Fla. hit a shot with 1:25 left in the game to give Florida Southern all it needed to defeat UCF 56-54 in the UCF gym Wednesday night. It was King's bucket that gave the Mocs the 52-50 lead they held on to for the rest of the game.

For most of the contest, it looked as if the Knights might pull off their 13th straight win against only two defeats. The Knights totally shut down the Mocassins' heralded All-American center, John Ebeling. A pressure defense, relying mostly on Dean Rossin, held Ebeling to only seven points.

In the first half, the Knights used all of their playbook. The Knights worked inside, then shot from the outside, then stalled and then pressed. The game was a seesaw affair, with the lead constantly changing hands.

UCF grabbed the lead early in the second half and almost held it the distance. With 16:24 left, Jim Beachum broke inside the lane to give the Knights a 29-24 advantage, their largest lead of the game.

Southern took the lead at the 11:21 mark on a Brian Radon shot, 37-36. Again, the squads swapped baskets throughout the remainder of the game. UCF's Jimmie Ferrell hit a 20-foot jumper to knot the contest for the last time at 50-50.

With only 1:30 remaining, Mark King put in a jump hook inside the lane to give the Mocs the 52-50 lead they would never relinquish.

A Rossin layup rolled around the rim but didn't drop in and the game was iced for Florida Southern, 56-50.

The Knights' record dropped to 12-3 overall and 1-1 in the Sunshine State Conference. The Mocs moved up to 7-7 overall and 2-0 in the conference.

Saturday in Miami-UCF made it 12 in a row against the Biscayne Bobcats, but it wasn't an easy win for the Knights.

Throughout the first half, it looked as if Biscayne would defeat UCF for the first time since 1975, leading 44-27 at halftime.

Things looked even bleaker for the Knights with 15:43 remaining in the game. Rossin was forced to the bench with his fourth foul. From there, UCF began its comeback. The tide seemed turned in UCF's favor with 10:33 left to go. Ferrell hit a jumper from the foul line to slice Biscayne's lead to five points, 59-54.

With just 1:39 remaining, Beachum drove inside the lane and was fouled. He went to the free throw line and completed the three point play. UCF now trailed only 71-70.

Then, with eight seconds left, Ruben Cotton hit a stop jumper to give UCF its first lead of the game, 72-71.

Cotton, however fouled John Batule and the Bobcat went to the line with a chance to tie the contest. An 85 percent free throw shooter, Batule missed the shot and Rossin got the rebound. He was fouled, but calmly sank both ends of the bonus situation and upped UCF's lead to 74-71. Jim Chakey's last second shot rounded out the scoring as the Knights picked up their first win in the Sunshine State Conference, 74-73.

UCF's Roland Ebron leaps above a Florida Southern defender for a one-handed shot as Dean Rossin positions himself for the rebound in Wednesday night's game.

Surf Club searches for new members

Pipeline, hang ten, and the Beach Boys.

These words suggest surfing to just about everyone, including members of the new UCF Surf Club.

However, club president Kevin Schloot says it is much more than that.

"We're members of the National Scholastic Surfing Association, out of Huntington Beach, Cal. Through the NSSA we'll be able to give scholarships."

There are about 45 members in the club. Three years ago students tried to establish a surf club but plans never got off the ground. Schloot said he hopes that will not happen again.

"It's just getting started at UCF. Our problem is that we are just weekend surfers," he explained. "Other schools with teams on the coast can surf every day. We're working at it and we're getting better."

During the fall the team competed against the Florida Institute of Technology and the University of Florida. In the winter and spring competition will be individual and UCF has a contest tentatively planned with the University of Florida tomorrow.

Because surfing is not yet an inter-collegiate sport it depends on other means to defray costs. One way has been bake sales, which have netted $120. Members are planning a February party featuring surfing movies from Puerto Rico and Costa Rica.

Anyone can join the Surf Club simply by contacting Kevin Schloot or stopping by AD 149 at 5 p.m. on Mondays.

One-on-One Results

In UCF's first One-on-One tournament Mark Turner defeated Jim Ames, 26-24 in overtime to win the competition.

Played before the UCF-Florida Southern game, Doug Snyder stopped Doug DeMichaels to capture third place.

At halftime, the finalists battled on the Knight court. At the end of the regulation time, Snyder was leading 20-18, without the four-point advantage needed for the win. Snyder hit a tap-in at the buzzer to nip Ames and win a $200 scholarship, courtesy of the Schenck company, sponsors of the event.

Lady Knights stumble past Flagler

by Patti Linzy
Sports Editor

Despite playing what coach Sharon Adamson called a "sloppy ballgame," the UCF women's basketball team struggled to an 84-75 win over Flagler College Monday night.

The Lady Knights committed too many turnovers and made the contest "appear close when it shouldn't have been," said Adamson. "Defensively, this was our worst game of the year. We just weren't concentrating and Flagler kept plugging away the whole time. They never gave up."

UCF held just a five-point lead at halftime, but managed to open the margin to nine by the end of the game. Sophomore standout Meg Fahey led the offensive attack with 28 points, followed closely by another sophomore-FSU transfer Teresa Tinsley with 25 points.

Although she wasn't pleased with her squad's performance, "We'll take any win we can," the head coach said. "The players know they didn't play well. But they won't let that get them down. We shot 85 percent from the free throw line and I was really pleased with that."

In a second game, a last-second basket provided the perfect ending to a tight game and snatched a victory out of UCF's hands as Wright State edged the Lady Knights 80-79.

The two teams matched each other point for point throughout most of the game before the final basket ended the seesaw battle. Fahey again led UCF with 26 points while Marcie Swilley added 15, Mary Holapa pumped in 12 and Tinsley contributed 10.

"We had every chance to win that game," pointed out Adamson. "We should have won it. We played good defense. They just made the shot when it counted. We were there after the shot, but we just couldn't do anything. But I was pleased, even with the loss. Wright State is a good team."

Over the past two games the Lady Knights have been without the services of one of their top scorers and rebounders—Susan Prehn—who will be out for at least two more weeks with a knee injury. "We definitely miss her," said Adamson. "We don't have much depth anyway. We've had to use Meg (Fahey) inside all year but hopefully we can get enough people experienced inside to move her back out where she belongs. We should have plenty of people ready to play inside by the state tournament."

Following last night's Florida Southern game, the Lady Knights have a 12-day break before hosting Georgia State at 6:30 p.m. on Feb. 2.

OPINION

Extremist views unnecessarily hard

After Charley Reese expressed the opinion in a Jan. 21 Sentinel Star column advising UCF to kick all the Iranians out of the university various offices on campus, including the Future editorial office, received phone calls from loonies asking for Iranian students' dorm numbers as bomb sites.

Mr. Reese offers his suggestion as a solution to our enrollment crisis, ousting 170 Iranians to allow entry to our own native sons. Unfortunately, he desires punishing the innocent as well as the guilty.

Can we self-righteously denounce an entire people for the actions of a few?

Perhaps we should exile all conservative Republicans for the Watergate break-in.

We should instead retain those Iranians who are here as serious students.

Those who use their stay here as a propaganda platform should expect American anger and American threats. We will, however, grant them something they denied the 52 Americans--the freedom to go home.

Laura Hoffman

"I can understand the anger of those students that are turned away but I don't have the power to disenroll students in good standing on the basis of national origin," said President Trevor Colbourn

Letters to the Editor

Students should clean up after themselves

I think your paper should address itself to a problem that I have come into contact with in my work here as a groundskeeper on campus. It seems to be largely ignored and I suspect that many students are unaware that it exists. I am speaking of the apparent attitude on the part of some students, whereby they regard the campus as one large garbage receptacle.

I often wonder if this disregard for the appearance of the campus is a carryover from their home life. Do they leave empty six packs of beer bottles lying in their own driveways? I think not. So why do I see students walk off and leave: paper cups, snack bar bags, candy wrappers and potato chip bags? My guess is that some students leave any conception of their own responsibility for the appearance of the campus safely at home, along with their brains.

Here's something else to think about. It costs alot of money to keep the campus clean in the style that most students have become accustomed to. As it stands today, one groundskeeper is employed eight hours a day, five days a week to clean up after students who consider themselves the leaders (?) of tomorrow. When you add to this the cost of numerous special details to clean up after parties, outdoor speakers, and student government entertainment activities, I'd say the cost comes to well over $10,000 a year. Even with all this money and time being spent, some areas of the campus still look like New York City during the garbage strike. The boys' dorms and outer parking lots seem to have been declared some kind of "free zone" where any and all dumping of garbage is allowable and encouraged.

What's the solution to this problem? Why did I write this letter? I hope that more students will address this problem by taking more pride in their campus and putting more effort into keeping it clean. I'm not talking about picking up anyone else's trash, just keeping a handle on your own. The grounds crew will always be there to pick up behind the students, but aren't there much more constructive uses for our time?

Jim Snyder

No room for organizations on campus

Editor:

I would like to voice my frustration with a problem many students are facing. In the past few years this institution has experienced the highest enrollment ever in it's history. As the enrollment increases, quite naturally, so does the number of students, and the number of student organizations on campus. There has always been the problem of space on this campus. Until recently, we have been able to cope with this inconvenience.

In the past two quarters, the problem has become unbearable. In the Student Center, there used to be 5 rooms available for meetings ( SC 200, 214, 211, the SOL, and the art gallery.) Presently there are two rooms available, because now the art gallery is being converted to offices, and the SOL is being used for leisure classes, "sign-up" places, pictures, etc.

Oh, I forgot to mention SC 200. During Fall Quarter, the Student Organizations office was moved in there, and very soon (if not already so) the president of the Student Body will take it over, since his past two offices in the last two months haven't been big enough. Wasn't his 24 hour reserved parking space enough? He is no better or more privileged than any of the rest of us. Why can't he park in the dirt lots of Bithlo like everyone else? Does anyone else care that is going to any expense (using the student's money) to accommodate himself with luxuries, while we dump the sand out of our shoes and take our clubs and organizations off campus to apartments and clubhouses to meet?

I realize that space will not just pop out of the sky, but we must do our part to make space, not waste it. Obviously, all of the Student Government branches are not "students serving students", unless you have the proper social affiliation. It does not appear to me that too many SG people are "reaching out" to students, except for some conscientious senators who have done the best job I have seen in many years, of getting along with each other.

The Future is published weekly, fall winter and spring and biweekly in the summer at the University of Central Florida. It is written and edited by students of the University with offices in the Art Complex on Libra Drive.

Opinions expressed in the Future are those of the editor or the writer of the article, and not necessarily those of the Board of Publications, University Administration, or Board of Regents.

Fellow Students,

Since there has been a public inquiry as to what goals have been attained from your Student Government thus far, I think that it is appropriate that we take a look at the progress that we have made in what should be called a mid-year status report to you. I have and will continue to abide by my commitment to respond to and account for your concerns. It is with a great deal of pleasure that I recommend to you a summary of projects and programs which reflects to a large degree those goals that I set for the Blount Administration when I assumed responsibilities for this job.

Nautilus Weightlifting Room-The Nautilus weightlifting and equipment room is completed! This program has already been termed a success as the grand opening has been set for the first week in February. This facility is open to all students on behalf of Student Government.

Expansion of the Raquetball Courts-I am pleased to announce that bidding for a new raquetball facility is to begin next week. Appropriate funding has been identified as we hope to duplicate the present structure, which will double the complete facility altogether. We anticipate completion of the project for Spring Quarter 1981.

Forgiveness Policy-While we have had some progress in the implementation of a forgiveness policy, we are continually receiving defiance from the Faculty Senate. The attitude, I must add, is a bit better than past years. We will continue to make every effort to convince them of our needs. It might be necessary for the Student Body to speak out!

Improvement of Dorm and Food Services-We are currently working with the Food Service in assisting their attempts to receive better equipment as well as their attempt to beautify the surroundings in which students eat. I think that both of these will improve the Food Services tremendously!

The dormitories have established separate governments which this office recognized, in hopes to better dorm services. I have assigned as well a committed staff support and funding to better our dormitories. We should see some improvement in on campus programming also as a result of us working together. The first charge to my liaison is to evaluate and support resident student parking.

Academic Advisement-I am requesting the Administration to establish a Central Advisement Office in every college within the University so that our students can be properly advised and will know where to go for central advising. A proposal on advisement has been submitted from this office.

Campus Transportation System-Despite the misinformation that has been shared on some occasions, I am still committed to some type of transportation. We remain to have a problem in recognizing a funding source. There has been some interest from the County Commission, which should make transportation probable. I think that we can see this during my administration and in the near future.

Discount Card Program-I am proud to announce that Student Government has made discount cards possible for this campus. Discounts with local merchants ranging from 5% to 25% off on purchases can be realized. The target date was January 1, 1981. Problems with the printing will move the project to the first week in March.

Improvement of Recreational Facilities-I have met with the Campus Planner to review the present recreational facilities that we have. I am proposing to provide more seating spaces or bleachers for better observation of sport activities as well as reviewing better ways to utilize our present pool area. Some improvements will be noted.

Lake Claire Beautification Project-The Lake Claire project will be completed in February! This area has been completely renovated on behalf of Student Government and with the assistance of the Physical Plant. This will perhaps be the greatest contribution to this campus as we expand in the distant future. A grand opening is being planned.

Dental Services Program-The Dental Service Program is probably the most successful of any Student Government Program. Due to demand, we now have three hygienists as opposed to one in past years, and the service is now open until 8:00p.m. for evening students convenience. There are plans for overall expansion of this program.

Typing Service-This year, Student Government purchased four more typewriters for your convenience. The typing service sees up to 60 students per day and is now located next to the Student Government offices in Student Center room 204. This service has also expanded its hours to 9:00p.m. for evening students.

Campus Safety-I am requesting $20,000 this session from the Student Senate to provide better lighting on this campus. This project should be completed by this quarter. We have also caused street signs along Alafaya Trail to go up indicating that speed should be reduced as students are crossing. We would ultimately like to see that street four laned and well lighted for students safety.

Student Center Programming-Some reorganization is in process in trying to provide our Student Center with as much of your input as possible. Therefore, we are working closer with the Student Center Personnel for better programming for us all. Physical reorganization has improved communication in most cases tremendously. Campus programming will be improved during this administration.

I think that we can certainly feel safe in saying that we have assumed a great deal of success as these are just some of the major projects that we have accepted responsibility for. While we are at the half way mark, I think that all of the goals for the administration has either been completed or are in the process of being completed. We realize that there are many, many more issues that is not addressed here. I want to make clear also that as I anticipated, a number of issues are being dealt with at the State level. I can assure you that you are well represented there also. We want you to know about and feel comfortable with what we are doing. Your input is very helpful.

In closing, there is one other point that I would like to make perfectly clear, in saying that while I feel accountable to you as a student leader, there are no plans in this administration to feel the need to respond to any uninformed students who wishes to make unsupported allegations against myself or any member of the staff, especially one who does not offer constructive criticism or pose any helpful solution to his problem that could perhaps aid us in making a decision on his behalf. In short, you have the right to complain or seek the truth, but please gather the proper and correct information first. It would save some time and concern for the both of us.

I am continually optimistic, and with good reason, about what this year will bring. We need to approach 1981 with a renewed sense of commitment and aroused sense of dedication to complete and conquer those goals that we have set. I feel good about what we are doing, however, we still have so much more to do. I know that we will achieve! It is with a profound sense of confidence and dedication that I close. Until we speak again, I remain to be

Most sincerely,

James E. Blount
